

RUSK COUNTY APPRAISAL DISTRICT STANDARD ON COMMUNICATIONS AND OUTREACH

GOAL:

It is the goal of the Rusk County Appraisal District (RCAD) to establish and maintain a positive image. The most important requirement of this goal is fair, open and efficient administration of the appraisal functions. Property owners, individuals, taxing units, media and the general public must be informed what the Appraisal District does and that it is done well.

THE PUBLIC RELATIONS PROGRAM:

The Appraisal District's public relations program builds on competent administration. It is the "first line of defense". Courteous and effective implementation of the public relations program can eliminate the need for other defenses to be used. Without a sound public relations program, the Appraisal District may interact with the public only through complaints and appeals.

The Chief Appraiser is responsible for ensuring that all staff meets the public in a courteous manner. Ensuring that staff is knowledgeable about the functions of the Appraisal District and capable of informing the property owners about their rights and obligations may prevent further misconceptions and ill-feelings toward the Appraisal District office.

The Chief Appraiser's "public" includes not only individual taxpayers, but also such groups as appraisers, developers, title companies, real estate brokers, lending institutions, communications media, taxing units and other units of government, civic and professional associations and public institutions that benefit from the ad valorem property tax system.

The Appraisal District office must manage the information system so that these various publics have access to the large amount of useful and necessary information to be found in assessment records. These groups, in turn, can be a communications network that informs the general public about the Appraisal District office.

The most important parts of a public relations program are a well-run office with well-organized records and record storage, an office layout that makes public access easy, a courteous staff trained to deal with the public and written rules of procedure.

PLANNING A PUBLIC RELATIONS PROGRAM

A planned program of public relations includes well-thought-out responses to issues and inquiries, cooperation with other government agencies, and ways of getting information to the public through media contacts, printed information and speaking engagements. The Chief Appraiser shall talk to the media and prepare printed information in advance, if possible.

REVIEWING NEEDS

The first step in planning good public relations is a review of needs. The Chief Appraiser shall consider:

1. What is the Appraisal District's public image?
2. How well informed is the general public?
3. What is the political environment?
4. What staff improvements are needed?
5. Are procedures that are already in place working?
6. What issues have surfaced that need to be addressed and what are the anticipated issues?

Analysis of these questions shall be an on-going process by the Chief Appraiser.

RESPONDING TO INQUIRIES AND ISSUES

Many people often need information from the appraisal office. Property information and maps are important resources. The Chief Appraiser shall find an efficient means of responding to inquiries via telephone, computer, printed matter, electronic media, etc. The Chief Appraiser may charge fees to recover the costs of providing some forms of information.

Appraisals are often controversial. Many issues will arise in response to specific events. The Chief Appraiser shall set out clear, well-defined responses to anticipated issues to create and increase public confidence in the appraisal process and Appraisal District office. The Chief Appraiser shall be sure that all Appraisal District employees are well-versed in the responses for anticipated issues. Additionally, education of the public prior to major actions of the district shall be performed by the Chief Appraiser. The Chief Appraiser may enlist the media to cover Appraisal District actions as this will present the actions in a clear and well-defined manner. The Chief Appraiser may choose other avenues of education for the public, such as speaking events at citizen's groups meetings.

Some issues that may arise for the Appraisal District and that require planned responses include, but not limited to, the following:

1. Rationale for implementing a reappraisal.
2. Impact of a reappraisal.
3. Maintenance of property (depreciation questions) and the impact of new improvements value to the total property value, especially on those properties which have been designated as an over-65 homestead with a ceiling.
4. Appraisal bias.
5. Incompetence accusations against the Chief Appraiser, Appraisal District employees and/or the property tax system.

COOPERATION WITH OTHER PUBLIC AGENCIES

The Chief Appraiser shall continually strive to establish good relationships with other agencies of government. Some ways to establish and maintain good relationships with other public agencies include, but are not limited to, the following:

1. Avoid surprises, especially public ones. Discuss public statements in advance with officials who might be affected. Get facts before responding to statements made by other officials.
2. Avoid making unreasonable demands on others. Try to anticipate needs in advance so that others have time to prepare.
3. Criticize directly and IN PRIVATE. Do not use the media as a forum for interagency problems.
4. Seek out advice.
5. Learn what other agencies do and understand their functions as they relate to the appraisal office.
6. Keep other agencies informed.
7. Be vocal in praising other offices (share the glory).

MEANS OF CIRCULATING INFORMATION

Media Contacts

It is the responsibility of the Chief Appraiser to present technical information in clear and understandable language. Press releases should usually be limited to one page and may be supplemented by a press kit giving further details, financial data, names of key people, etc.

The Chief Appraiser shall speak carefully, explain fully, ask for feedback before the reporter leaves, arrange to review the material before it is published, if possible, limit radio and television to selected staff members only, and use whatever means possible to avoid being misquoted. Any and all contact with national media would call for professional and legal guidance.

Printed Information

Brochures can be as simple as a single typed sheet of paper or as complex as a professionally prepared, multipage brochure. All printed matter must be clear, accurate and attractive.

Speaking Engagements

Public speaking gives the District access to organized groups such as civic clubs, associations, real estate organizations, etc. The Chief Appraiser may designate another member of the staff, such as the Deputy Chief, Director of Administration, or Agricultural Appraiser to speak on their specific areas of expertise.

In performing speaking engagements, the Chief Appraiser or other designated representative shall be prepared to hold a Question-and-Answer period and shall have answers ready. Public speakers must have tact, sympathy and discretion. Anyone representing RCAD in any public forum shall dress appropriately according to the nature of the function.

The Chief Appraiser shall prepare, in advance, standard speeches, charts/graphs and films or slide shows so that the quality of the presentation does not suffer and last-minute invitations can be accepted, as scheduling permits.

APPRAISAL DISTRICT SPOKESPERSON

The Chief Appraiser shall serve as the Appraisal District spokesperson. The Chief Appraiser may, in certain circumstances, designate an employee to serve in the capacity of spokesperson.

The Chief Appraiser shall coordinate interviews, write and distribute news releases, news-letters, reports, correspondence, post information in all applicable places, coordinate special events such as open houses and public appearances, edit special publications and annual reports and coordinate the release of information to media channels.

LISTENING

The initial task of public relations is to understand the public's current image of the appraisal office. The Appraisal District's Chief Appraiser and staff must listen to what the public is saying and observing its actions and reactions. Listening involves observing the economic, social, and political environments, identifying possible problems or opportunities, interpreting public opinion, and evaluating the messages. All issues that affect appraisal functions must be clearly defined and given full attention.

All Appraisal District staff are required to be alert to issues and to report to the Chief Appraiser when problems are identified. Additionally, the Chief Appraiser shall institute a public feedback mechanism, such as customer survey cards prominently displayed on the counter for the public to pick up and complete. Further, the Chief Appraiser shall review the surveys submitted and address issues identified. Feedback shall also be obtained from other local sources.

ISSUES MANAGEMENT AND ACTION PLANNING

Emerging issues and appropriate responses shall be anticipated and appropriate responses shall be prepared in advance to minimize adverse public reaction. External influences can often dictate which issues demand priority status. The Chief Appraiser shall be responsible for preparedness to deal with these issues and shall determine priority status. The Chief Appraiser shall develop an action timetable that defines tasks and establishes priorities for resolving the issues. Planning must be well-coordinated. The Chief Appraiser shall involve the Appraisal District staff to ensure effective implementation.

CRISIS PLAN

The Chief Appraiser shall be the spokesman in the event of a crisis situation. The chief appraiser may appoint an employee to fill this roll in the event that he is unavailable or involved in actions to alleviate the crisis situation. Either the Chief Appraiser or the named employee shall coordinate interaction with the news media in a crisis and be certain that all information released is accurate and precise.
